

“Suicide Squad” star’s Hollywood Hills home gets $400,000 price chop

Joel Kinnaman’s three-bedroom pad sits on a bluff above Sunset Plaza

August 10, 2016 01:07PM
By Hannah Miet

The house at 1723 Viewpoint Drive (via Halton Pardee + Partners) and Joel Kinnaman in a “Suicide Squad” post (via Warner Brothers)

In February, Joel Kinnaman, one of the stars of “Suicide Squad,” put his home in the Hollywood Hills on the market for $2.8 million. This week, as the film smashed box office records despite cutting reviews, Kinnaman’s home price also got diced — by way of a $400,000 chop.

Inside the house at 1723 Viewpoint Drive (via Halton Pardee + Partners)

The price of the three-bedroom home, which sits at 1723 Viewpoint Drive on a bluff above Sunset Plaza, has been reduced to $2.4 million. The home has an open floorplan with giant picture windows. From the vantage point of one of its soaking tubs, you can see the Pacific Design Center, Century City and the ocean.

Inside the house at 1723 Viewpoint Drive (via Halton Pardee + Partners)

Justin Alexander of Halton Pardee + Partners has the listing, which describes the new price as the “best buy on the Sunset Strip.”

<http://therealdeal.com/la/2016/08/10/suicide-squad-stars-hollywood-hills-home-gets-400000-price-chop/>