

8 Man Caves Designed for Every Passion

By Brie Dyas | Jun 13, 2017 6:00AM

These awesome man caves make Father's Day every day.

With Father's Day around the corner, it's the perfect time to ask: What exactly is a man cave today, anyway? Traditionally, it was all about making an escape, but these days, the man cave includes more than a room of one's own—it's prime real estate where a guy can pursue his passions and spend QT with friends. Let's be real: Where else can a man binge watch every episode of Bourdain or jam to Bruce on full blast with his friends? In honor of the holiday for all dads, Trulia has rounded up a not-nearly-complete but completely fascinating selection of man caves currently found in homes for sale across the country.

For the resident DJ

$5.495 million

2550 Mandeville Canyon Rd., Los Angeles, CA 90049

Dads who dabble in music will know the pain of having to jam out quietly, lest they disturb the neighborhood or a sleeping baby. So any budding guitarists will love the opportunity to crank it up to 11 in this expertly-soundproofed studio and mixing room. Located in the center of this 5-bed, 6-bath LA home, the studio gives an unexpected edge to this otherwise traditional home located in the beautiful Mandeville Canyon area of LA's affluent Brentwood neighborhood, where your neighbors include Dr. Dre and Gwyneth Paltrow.
